Jack D. Spiro, D.H.L., Ed.D, has long enlightened audiences and fueled community dialogue with his thought-provoking lectures on some of the most important topics in the Jewish culture and faith. This year, in a lecture titled "Shall Not the Judge of All the Earth Do Justly," he will consult the wisdom of Abraham, Job and philosopher Baruch Spinoza to reflect upon evil.

Registration for the March 27 lecture is now open.

Calling all Girl Scouts with ties to VCU

Are you a VCU alumna or employee, a Girl Scout leader, former Scout, parent of a Scout? All of the above? VCU Libraries wants to know you so we can invite you to visit "A Century of Leadership." Please take a moment to fill out

Be a Friend and Join the Friends

The Friends of the Library are the backbone of support for VCU Libraries. As we prepare to break ground on the new library, your support is more vital than ever. Please invite a friend or two of yours to join the Friends.
"He's like a science rock star."

Karen Purcell, local health care expert, after attending the Sanger Series talk by John Wilbanks on "The Politics of Personal Research Data"

See the video

---

News

- Moving Forward: Construction Update
- New Souths and Social Justice: VCU hosts first THATCamp for RVA
- VCU Libraries posters celebrate diversity
- New website for the new building
- Digital Pragmata session set for April 8
- Inside the Collection: ICPSR

Events

- Registration now open for: March 14-15: THATCamp New Souths
- April 8: Digital Pragmata: "Scholar, Maker, Creator: New Humanities Conversations"
On March 18, VCU Libraries celebrates the release of the autobiography of noted civil rights activist Edward H. Peeples, Jr., Ph.D., with an evening panel discussion featuring Peeples in a conversation on his life's mission with his book contributors and fellow scholars Nancy MacLean, Ph.D., and James H. Hershman, Jr., Ph.D., moderated by John Kneebone, Ph.D. Doors open at 6:30 p.m. A book signing and reception will follow. Register now.